1. Educate oncology nurses about new lymphedema evidence, so they are prepared to teach and care for patients accurately.
2. Teach nurses how to assess for lymphedema and what to do if this occurs.
3. To improve nurses’ knowledge of preventive measures, so they can properly use this knowledge to teach patients effectively; which will in turn improve patient outcomes.
4. Continue to strengthen a cohesive group of lymphedema experts, adding increased time together.
5. Continue to provide newsletters to all lymphedema members.
6. To spread the knowledge of new developments found in the research regarding lymphedema, through written and verbal message.
